That is great. Thank you. My first step is to get accepted= I will start preparing for the application. They require somewhat solid p=ogramming experience.

However, I might not be accepted b=cause I'm not eligible to work officially. As I understand "hackr=actor" (organization that provides programming class) wants their stu=ents to find jobs right after because the companies pay "hackreactor&=uot; some fees. I will have to tell them that I'm intersted in a job, =o hopefully that will work.

I will update you when I kn=w if I'm accepted or not. Thank you again.

Regarding the project: it is currently on hold because my =usband got full time job to pay the bills. He is not motivated enough to w=rk after his work. I've been learning some programming on my own but t=e process is too slow. I was thinking to take an immersive prog=amming class ((h=tp://www.hackreactor.com/ <http://www.hackreactor.com/>)) but I can't afford it now. So, t=e project is not moving but I'm not giving up and will make it happen.=I think, if I get better at programming I can motivate my husband to to wo=k with me.

We could talk more about t=e project and figure out if and how you can help.

If those days good, I will go ahead and by plane tick=ts. I will not need the car, I will take a train.
