Thanks!

H=llo Jeffrey,

You look the same as the last=time...which is a good thing!

I have=a problem and seeing you turned on the light bulb in my brain:

[REDACTED] has a container project that we've= just finished. Two 20' containers to transport from St. Thomas to A=egada in the BVI. One is sleeping quarters and the other is small kit=hen and bathroom.

We had transportation li=ed up, but it broke down 4 days ago and they don't know what'= wrong with the engine yet or how long it will take to get it running again=

I've tried all other options and nothing has come t=rough. Because of the current and the upcoming holidays; everything has bee= booked.

We had planned to get them transported by mid Nove=ber, but ran into numerous problems trying to finish them. They are now rea=y to go and, of course our transport breaks down.

Would you allow us to use your barge to take the containers to Anega=a? I will gladly pay for fuel, manpower (Bosco), and whatever else must be p=id.

Wondering also, if the answer is yes; could we use you= crane as well? If that's a deal breaker, I can find a crane elsewhere:)

Thanks for any consideration and will understand if the answer is no.

Happy Thanksgiving!

Sunny regards,

<=r>
