Michelle and I are going to do another score reading at the Met opera- tickets go on sale Monday and sell out right away. (it is a bargain, just $40, including the opera)...let me know if you are in town/want to join us:

Saturday, November 17, ♦=A0
10am, followed by performance of Tosca

We did one of these before- Verdi's Requiem, and it was at the NYC-standard (world-class- these people are good at what they do; it also turned out to be the final conducting performance of James Levine's career, sadly).
