Hello,

Right now what we have available are 25 gallon Seagrape bushes at 5=6ft tall. All the 6-7ft tall ones have been purchased. I attached pictures o= a few of them.

I hav= looked around as we need some for another job and I do not think you are g=ing to find any other seagrapes then the ones I have mentioned. On the 65 g=llon bushes I told you about, they have sold some so I would have to check t= see how many they have still if any. The only 45 gallon I have found are 5=t tall so the 25 gallon would be a better purchase. </=>

I will remind you that there is a shortage of=plant material and what is available right now might not be available tomor=ow. As you can see the sizes are going down it seems daily. <=span>

</=>

If you have any other questions pleas= let me know.

Thanks.

=/p>

If you would please reply "Received=E2??" so I know you received this it would be greatly appreciated. </=>

Pricing and Availability Disclaimer= If I am pricing plants please be informed that we can only guarantee availability and pricing the day we quote the plants. With current availability problems in the market if you need material we will hold it with a nonrefundable payment. Unless it is paid we cannot guarantee it. =/p>

Greetings Jon,

<=p>

Our Principal is inquiring now on how many of the Sea grapes - 25 gallon, 6-7 feet tall, $225 - you have currently in stock. He is most interested in the ones that are closer to 7 feet, but he would like to know the total in the 25 gallon size. We would greatly appreciate additional photos if you can provide them.

=/div>

He would also like for you to re-inquire on the availability of any 45 gallon plants that have not yet been stepped up to the 65 gallon pots.

<=>

Thank you and kind regards, = Daphne

Hello,

I just heard back on the 45 gallon=seagrape bushes. The nursery that had them just stepped them up to 65 gallo= pots a couple weeks ago. With that said they also raised their price on th=m. They are 9-10ft tall and $50 more expensive.
