Miqs.io is the company that is building it with a couple =IT alums.

They previous=y contracted for CBOE to build one of their new exchange platforms. <=div>

Good would mean secure, =ood risk control, coin custody, and high performance. I'm learning mor= about what they built (they have 15 engineers working on it) before I wou=d assert they're doing a good job.

</=iv>

They basically need to hire or partner with a good op=rator to help them launch. Jing (the CEO of Miqs) knows how to run an engi=eering consultancy but not an exchange. I think if we can help them do tha= and get banked, it will be profitable.

Is that something you'd be able =o help with, were we to invest in them?

If their tech is good, and w= can get them launched, it could be lucrative.

Best,
