Lawrence,

Here you go. As you will see, we have done our level best to make the best arguments on you behalf while keeping it as tight as we possibly can. Please remember, as you read this, that the only things Crow will likely ever read before he makes his decision are Kenney's letter and this. So if we ram too much in there, we will lose him. You will, I am confident, wonder "But why didn't they say this????"-at least half a dozen times as you read this. And I get that; it's normal. People hate leaving things left unsaid. But if you say everything, people's eyes glaze over—especially—at this stage, when the person doing the reviewing isn't some bean who has plenty of time to pore over something, but the president of the whole school.

I know I'd asked you to send us various email earlier tonight. You'll see in there that we have marked (usually with "XXX") where we need to insert other emails or documents. Please compile those and send them to us as soon as you have a chance. To the extent that you and Nancy want to play paralegal, as we'd discussed before, you could put them all, in order, in a single PDF, which would save us a lot of time (and thus save you money). But obviously, that's totally your call.

Thanks, and we look forward to hearing what you think.

Justin
