Hi!

Mom and sis are doing fine. They visited me here a couple of weeks ago, mom=stayed here for a month with me. Now she's back in Moscow, working on Dad's legacy/memory back home. Signed the book deal, among other things, and wo=king on that. We don't have an English translation yet. We're working as a team, and I have to say, I adm=re mom's courage and resilience. We're focusing on family affairs and gett=ng Dad's legacy in place this year. Next year, we'll think of a broader fa=ily strategy and focus on Mom and her professional next steps.

As for myself, I enjoy the work that I'm doing, the team is great and I enj=y working alongside colleagues from all over the world and top schools lik= Wharton, MIT and Harvard. We get to choose our projects, I aim to get exp=rience in working on operations, company group strategy, legal, negotiations and commercial when I choose t=em. 12 hour work days fly by without me noticing. Every day brings somethi=g absolutely new. As per your guidance, I am negotiating for every single =hing and will be taking part in, as I have been told, one of the best negotiations training in the world. A= you said last time we spoke, this is a lot like business school. After 8 =onths of this job, I know that I can perform on an international level amo=g some of the most driven people. Having said that, I don't believe this is my calling. I have the energy, w=ll, understanding of the world and specific experience to do other things.=At the moment, I'm giving this my all. I give a lot of thought to how to r=alise my full potential. That's something that I'd really appreciate your insight on.

On another note, one time we spoke about boxing and the strategy that comes=with it. I started boxing here and absolutely love it! I train a lot, heal=hy life style here is very easy to actually do.

I've been giving a lot of thought to our conversati=ns in NYC and I greatly appreciate you reaching out. I'm not planning on v=siting the US any time soon, if you're planning to be in Europe, I'd be happy to come see you.

We hope that you are doing very well and remember everything. Mom sends her best!

Regards,

Max
