Hi Jeffrey,

My trip to A=necy, and Strasborg, France was interesting but I think I am at a time in =ife when I need modern conveniences like elevators and air conditioning. L=ggng a 40 lb suitcase up and down spiral staircases has lost its old worl= charm.

I am writing to ask your opinion about what to do =ith my living situation. I am seeing a real estate agent tomorrow to discu=s selling my apartment. My maintenance is too high since the last two asse=ments for capital improvements. I have to sell because my income will be =uch lower since I retired. I don't know whether to buy a small studio =o reduce my maintenance and raise some cash (the difference between my sal= and purchase) or to rent. I've been looking at apts to buy and or to =ent. The rentals start at $3000 in the city which is actually higher than =y maintenance but then if I have the money from the sale of my apartment, =erhaps I can invest it to pay for the cost of renting...? You mentio=ed that the cost of living is less in Florida and that I might consider mo=ing there, but since I was diagnosed with skin cancer, it's probably b=st that I don't live there (but I can visit). Besides, Erik=ives here in New York, and I would miss him too much, if I moved out of s=ate. So what do you think...rent, buy smaller apt. or volunteer for the Na=ional Park Service and live rent-free : )

I'd appreciate you= advice, I can't do the math and you're a pretty smart guy (most o= the time.)
Love, Kathy
