Dear Noam,<=span>

Thank you for asking me to serve as the trustee of the marital trusts. After careful consideration, I unfortunately believe my present position as your and Valeria's estate planning counsel prevents me from accepting this additional role. In taking on the trusteeship, it is my view that although your interests would take priority, I would also need to consider your children's interests as the remainder beneficiaries. In working with and getting to know you and Valeria over the last few years, my understanding of the situation is that this conflict of interest makes taking on both roles untenable in this instance, especially where one of our children is the current trustee. I anticipate Harry would not agree to appoint me in any event, given the hostile nature of his approach during our discussion last week, and as he knows that I am currently advocating exclusively for your personal interests. I believe that at the present time, Valeria's and your interests are best served by keeping me in my current role, and finding another qualified and trusted advisor to serve as the trustee of the marital trusts free of any perceived conflict of interests.

I understand that you would like to achieve the change in trusteeship sooner rather than later. As I spoke with Max yesterday afternoon to ascertain what documentation he needs in order to make the additional principal distributions you have requested, per your and Richard's direction, and we also addressed the successor trustee list he is preparing. I will provide you with a summary of that call via a separate email.

Please let me know if you would like to schedule a call to discuss any of the above. =/u>

Best,

Deborah

This is going to delay things until January, then further delays. I'd prefer that you simply do as I wrote before: "run your name by Harry and Max tomorrow if possible. If you could serve for at least for a few months, we know we will be in good hands." Instead of waiting for Max's list.

Dear Noam,
Max is compiling a list and I need to get back to you with my thoughts. Please hold off until we can speak. Tomorrow I will send you some times when I am available this week.
Best,
Deborah
