Chillax has been plastered, however their "final fini=h' was still too coarse so I am making them get 400 grit paper on a variable speed rotor to resand tomorrow morning then be ready for paint before 11 am. Tiles will be started after all broken tiles are removed and documented, I am trying to wrap that up by tomorrow afternoon (making good progress so maybe a tad earlier) to keep the noise down during your visit (just lay tiles).
