Again, fair point. But as Billy Graham was wont to say, I don't pretend to know the mind of God. So the great preacher for one would not agree with the proposition of unhappy consequences automatically flowing to those who did not believe.

. Romans 10:13, "For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved." Say, "Father in Heaven, I believe that Jesus died for my sins." And God will impart eternal life to your spirit... sounds like forced speech to me

Great point! At a basic level, the acceptance of Christ must be voluntary. It's an invitation. No forced acknowledgments, conversions etc., as in the bad old days. Rather, the invitation is extended, warmly and lovingly.

great seeing you, I'm having trouble distinguishing between your baker case and Jesus. Having to accept Christ seems to me to be your words "forced speech". Laying out behaviors to follow, seems legit. forcing acknowledgment of a belief seems like tell the baker not only should he make the cake, but he should say I believe?
