How do I respond?

Larry,
I know he won't go any higher. And it maybe just pride.

I am already adding in $25,000 more than he wants me to pay for the a=rcraft. But convinced him that having u do the manuals would be a gr=at benefit. Not just because u know this aircraft but because of all=the reasons you stated.

So where are we? I am caught between both parties. I woul= have to take money out my maintenance budget to make it happen. The=e is just too much aircraft maintenance work right now to do that.

With said, And we have no other sales or offers.

We need to scrap the aircraft. The highest offer I have is less that =hirty thousand (legacy aircraft). But to remove, tag and package eve=ything for him but it will cost way more.

I can't keep storing it any longer.
