Let me explain the process a bit so you can understand how this works. Our case is unusual because the parties will participate by remote hookup, at least as presently contemplated. In any event, the mediation will begin with all parties and counsel joining to hear a message from the mediator about the benefits of settling the matter. The lawyers and the mediator will be in a conference room and the parties will participate by Skype or similar hookup. The joint session is usually brief. Then the lawyers and their respective clients break out into separate rooms and the mediator meets with one side first and then the other side, conveying proposals until the case either settles or it is determined that the case will not settle. Richard can listen to the mediator's introductory remarks and he can participate in the discussion in "our room" during the shuttle diplomacy of the mediator, as well as any discussions I have with you and Valeria during the mediation. Ordinarily non-lawyers do not otherwise participate, for example, if there are direct discussions among counsel.

Subject: Mediation

I assume that if I grant Richard Kahn power of attorney, he can represent me during the mediation, probably on the phone. Is that correct.

Noam
