I spoke with Richard =oday. He advises, among other things, that it is not necessary to =et a tax lawyer involved because we can structure any potential =ettlement in the form of a substantial distribution to you leaving the =alance of the trust for them to do with as they please. He says such a =ettlement will not have any adverse tax consequences to you. I =ill assume that you are satisfied with Richard's advise unless = hear from you to the contrary and will not seek tax counsel. As = think I told you, we do not have tax expertise in our firm.

At =his point then, I will contact Max's lawyer and tell him to set =p a meeting with Harry's lawyer for all three lawyers to decide =hether mediation might be useful at this time. I will keep you =pprised.

I got your email of this afternoon regarding =ifts/support. Can you connect me with Anthony Arnove?

Thanks, Noam. We are getting a tax attorney involved, =s we discussed last week.

It =ould be helpful to have a more fulsome explanation of the many ways in =hich you have provided for your children and grand children. I =an see an effective opening statement in a mediation, if we get there, =tlining with some detail all of the support you have already given to =hem. It doesn't need to be audit-ready, just a list with =ome approximate values.
