Ok.

I spoke to MJ who is =he broker at Scrouton Marine.

She spoke to Randy, the owner of West Bay. She =ave him a pep talk and he's gonna get going on the information =equested.

IN THE MEAN TIME....

this vessel is the former =CU1672, US Army Bush Master. 135' shallow draft 180 ton =anding craft.

Built 1976. Twin 12-71 Detroit Diesel =aturally aspirated propulsion engines with 4 blades propellers housed =n Kort Nozzles. Two onboard generators. Keel cooled.

When the vessel =eft the army it went to the State if North Carolina DOT as 'West =ay'. They used it to replenish oyster beds in their tidewater =reas. (See photos )

It was sold north to people unknown at this time. =andy King has it now and wants to sell it.

Only two credible vessels like it are for sale... this one is the newest and by far, the most accessible. The one for the sale has been taken down but they had it listed for $700k plus and reduced it to $500k plus.

This isn't like buying a car. There are only so many of these and the newest of the bunch is in your back yard and not in the other side of the planet.

Not to go look at it is crazy as JE said he wants one. Told me so. Told me to choose. I have. Let's go look.

Also, I have much more information on the Alaska boat. I've had conversations with the former Captain and it's sad I'm not as well informed about the "West Bay/Bush Master" CU 1668, which is the New York boat. The owner is a busy guy, reportedly, and has yet to send the photos and information he has promised. He has admitted that only half of the boat had been painted this year.
