Hi Stephanie,

Please advise on Kenny? you stated yesterday that his grace period ran out yesterday.

Should I stand down from checking on Kenny?

Please advise,
Ann R.

= spoke with Kenny this morning. I asked him if he can have two cabanas finished by noon today He said yes. I explained to him that this afternoon we will be pulling his work out and putting the temporary ones back in if they are not complete. He said he understood. Kenny's grace period runs out today.

Good morning,
Are you headed to LS this morning?
We basically begging a Vendor to complete his own work. It makes no sense. Why can't you just finish the project already? This is causing delay's in other Cabana projects

Kenny came over on a=1 o'clock boat. He showed up yesterday at 12:30.

K=nnny has made many promises of completion that he has not met.

I do not have faith that Kenny will complete this project by Sat=rday. Even if he does, we still need time to reinstate the plumbing fixture= in the sinks and raise the vanities and lighting as Kenny's countertops si= higher and the plumbing will not fit beneath the vanities and lighting now=

He was told to have the project finished by last T=esday. And then this Tuesday. And however many weeks before that.

I can't really see much progress after he's been here.

I am not convinced that the completed project, should it=actually get finished, will be up to standard.

In fact, I recommend we pull the plug on Kenny. Period. He's yet to s=ow us one single finished product in any of the cabanas.
