

---

From: paul krassner [REDACTED]
Sent: Friday, March 29, 2019 11:28 PM
To: Steven Gaydos
Subject: IMPORTANT

Sarah Silverman on Al Franken, Louis C.K., losing Her Hulu Show and More

In the premiere episode of 'The Last Laugh' podcast, Sarah Silverman speaks out for the first time about her Hulu show's cancelation and goes to bat for her friend Al Franken.

Matt Selstein

03.26.19 4:12 AM ET

=/section>

Subscribe to The Last Laugh on Apple Podcasts
</=iv>

Wearing a rainbow-striped hoodie and a "Beer Nuts" baseball cap, Sarah Silverman strode into our Burbank recording studio ready to talk.

It had been just a few weeks since Hulu had unceremoniously canceled her weekly show I Love You, America and the comedian's emotions were still a bit raw. But her unflappable sense of humor was fully intact as she recounted to me how she found out the bad news and ended up revealing more than ever before about how the streaming service treated her over the past year.

During our long conversation for the first-ever episode of my new podcast The Last Laugh, Silverman also spoke frankly about what it has been like to see her friend Al Franken accused of alleged sexual misconduct and attempted to clarify the controversial comments she made to Howard Stern about Louis C.K. She reflected on some of her most iconic roles and looked ahead to what comes next.

Highlights from the interview are below and you can listen to the whole thing right now by subscribing to The Last Laugh on Apple Podcasts, the Himalaya app or wherever you listen to podcasts.

On the 'heartbreaking' 99 cancelation of I Love You, America

"It came as a surprise. We were so sure =e were getting picked up. We're all super bummed about it. I =now that they did love the show, but I think what it cost compared to =ts popularity or the eyes that they had on it didn't—you =now, the people that make the decisions there don't have any =onnection to the show. And it is just so heartbreaking because I kind =f feel cut off at the knees."

Sarah Silverman on 'The Last =augh'

Cassandra Church/Starburns =udio

On =he 'bullshit' allegations against Al Franken

"I can only just =e honest and say, if I didn't know Al Franken, I'd =robably be like yeah, go girl, me too, fuck that shit. Because I do =now him, I don't feel that way. So maybe I'm too close =o it and just seeing the dots not the big picture. But I just can't believe it. The U.S.O. thing is bullshit and if you watch the sketch they did, give =e a fucking break. He may be guilty of doing pedestrian comedy, I =uess, but he apologized and she accepted his apology. But it does seem =hat the Republican Party—and I don't think this is =omething to emulate at all—doesn't apologize, denies =everything, admits nothing and everyone keeps their job. And I hate that =hat's what we teach our children. But if you apologize and say, =E2◆◆I want there to be an ethics investigation on me and I want to =o everything by the book, this is my truth but I'm open to [the =act] that these women felt this way, I want to make this right,' = don't know why that person then loses their job."

*

BURN IT =OWN

Sarah Silverman Throws Hulu Under the Bus: 'F*ck =t'

Matt =ilstein

=/a>

*

GIVING THANKS

Why Sarah Silverman Is 'Thankful' for =rump

Matt =ilstein

=/a>

"My experience =ith Louis as a teenager perhaps informs his =athology a bit. But in no way is it analogous to crimes, to assaults, =e subsequently committed that mirror it, that come from it. I was just =peaking about my own experience. And the headline was, 'He =erked off in front of me and I didn't care.' And =hat's so cold and insulting and awful to the women who were =urt by his actions. So if you clicked on it, they quoted me. But if you =idn't, and nobody does, it just makes me look like an asshole. =nd me looking like an asshole is the least of it. It hurt people and =here was stuff that I said that I don't think I was =rticulating the spirit of what I meant."

'The Last Laugh' host Matt Wilstein and =arah Silverman

Cassandra Church/Starburns =udio

On =erforming stand-up about being single without sounding =E2◆◆hacky'

RELATED IN ENTERTAINMENT

=h4 class="RelatedArticles __article-title" style="margin: 12px 0px =px; font-weight: 400; font-family: Georgia, Times, "Times New =oman", serif; font-size: 15px; line-height: 21px; color: rgba(2, =0, 31, 0.74902);">"Sarah Silverman Throws Hulu Under the Bus: 'F\*c= It'

=h4 class="RelatedArticles __article-title" style="margin: 12px 0px =px; font-weight: 400; font-family: Georgia, Times, "Times New =oman", serif; font-size: 15px; line-height: 21px; color: rgba(2, =0, 31, 0.74902);">"Comedians Reveal Their Realest Selves on 'The =ast Laugh'

=h4 class="RelatedArticles __article-title" style="margin: 12px 0px =px; font-weight: 400; font-family: Georgia, Times, "Times New =oman", serif; font-size: 15px; line-height: 21px; color: rgba(2, =0, 31, 0.74902);">"Seth Meyers Proves Trump Is the Real 'Husband =46rom Hell'

"It's such =n '80s comedienne premise, but then it was also my truth so I =as trying to reconcile with it. It's hard to not be meta about =t, because just to say 'I'm single' on stage. =here's something that feels so inherently hacky about it that I =eel like I have these guilt pangs and then it just becomes a whole =ther bit. It's always weird to navigate. I've always =een in relationships for big chunks of time and every time I come out =m like a generation older and I don't know what my =tation is."

Next week =n The Last =augh podcast: Arrested =evelopment and Veep star Tony =ale.