3. i am pretty confident that i have now solved t=e problem of honour killings in both Islamic and Hindu settings, the first=based on repeated first cousin marriages, the second on endogamous sub-cas=es who kill their own to maintain status vis-a-vis complementary endogamou= sub-castes most helpful to this work has been Da=id Haig at Harvard whom you met at a party you threw for me at Martin'= way back in 2004, also two of his students, including a most attractive D= Pavitra from India who has been helpful with the Hindu case i am waiting to hear from Vienna whether they want me to give a=TEDx talk on Honour Killings in October you can t=ll they are nervous, i thought at first it was fear of offending Hindus an= Muslims but was surprised to discover they had a more primitive problem=E2??that The EVOLUTIONARY GENETICS of hon kills would sound like i was=rationalising it; i had to explain to them, no if you want to attack somet=ing you best understand it first

4. i=have gotten involved in a case of lynching in North Carolina that occurred=three years ago, i will write you about it shortly; i will see Gordon mid=ovember, in part to discuss this case
