John Jeffrey

This is to connect you.

Jeffrey, John is the founder and editor and publisher of Nautilus which I think is the best journal on science and society out there. I am a regular reader. Lisa has been a contributor on the interface of science and poetry with Richard Dawkins on evolution and with Peter Gallusin on cosmology. Nautilus is looking for support to enable a transition to being self supporting.

John, Jeffrey who has been very successful financially is a long time friend of Lisa and mine. He has long had an interest in science--supporting a range of highly creative thinkers at harvard and elsewhere. I know people who circulate among the powerful, among the wealthy and among the brilliant. Jeffrey does all three to a unique extent.

I have no idea where it will lead but think you guys should be in touch.
