Jeffrey,

The nylon samples look pretty drab and are very difficult to treat.

This Italian velour carpet, (photo attached) is woven in NZ yarn and is hig=ly durable and easily fire-proofed. It lacks the sheen though

By next Friday, I am hoping to have both the silk and the worsted yarn samp=e to you with the treatment applied, so you see the difference and c=n make an informed decision

Both the silk and the wool will take only 6 weeks to produce and have in th= US after you decide, so I think we will be ok with time

Would you like me to send up the Italian velour?

Marc
