Hi Jeffrey,

I was away and I wanted to write a proper email to you.

First I wanted to thank you for all your help from when I met you since now.

It's been a weird year, trying to understand what to do. I was in Rome on and off and I am working for a PR based in New York that promotes fashion brand. I am basically the PA, I Contact people and ask them to make a selection of what they want and then I organize the shipment or I organize trip for her or send invitation and reminders for event...nothing special or fun. I am not even paid (she said that if she likes how I work she is going to pay me in September but I don't think its going to happen).

In the meanwhile I tried to get into very prestigious acting school in London but I didn't get in (apparently it is normal it is very difficult to get in and almost no one get in, for example a friend that is acting now in Rome and she is quite well known when she tried in 5 different school in London she didn't get in).

Now that I am doing Excel sheet all day long I am realising always more that I would like to do something more creative like acting or digital photography.

I have to be honest with you, I am struggling with what to do next this is why I never know what to tell you. I know you are disappointed and I am sorry we didn't see each other while you were in Paris. I hope you trust me and believe that I didn't tell you were in Paris, why should I have done that? I know you don't want to see her and I understand the situation.

I realized it was a mistake to study business and I should have done something else from the beginning.<=p>

Anyways I know you did so much for me and I wanted to thank you with all my heart and let you know I always think about you. I really hope you are well, happy and healthy.
