Because I've changed the way I perceive things in life and I believe I've matured in many different aspects. I've been working hard, earned some money, found myself and what I liked. It's already an achievement. I didn't write you "I need" or "I want" or "I promise". What I told you this time is to look at my actions and my results, nothing else. The fact that you didn't believe I wrote that message is the perfect example. I took time and dedication to write what I wrote and instead of saying: "good job, you've improved. I'm proud of you", you said: "I know you didn't write it" after I've spent 2 hours on it.

I have never said that. You are so used in manipulating people that you constantly have to twist the sentences your way. What I said is that you don't let a child drive alone a car that YOU gave him and let him go faster when he doesn't know how to drive just because he is having fun when you are aware he is going to crash BUT you don't kick him out of the car either. You sit next to him and you teach him how to drive by turning the steering wheel if he goes off track and pulling the break if you need to (you can't do that through a phone or by email).

What you have done after giving the car to the kid is kicking him out after he drove too fast leaving him alone with no car in the middle of the highway saying "I wish you well" knowing he is going to die hit by another car.

End of the story: the kid is obviously happy and grateful he received a car as a gift because without it he wouldn't have driven until where he is now. However he cannot continue the journey stranded on a highway.
