=div>OK. We have movement. I just went to Dr. Jerry Imber for a consultatio=. He is giving me a brow lift for a birthday present! It's to lift = tiny tiny bit of extra flesh between the crease on my eyelid fold and the=bottom of my eyebrow.

With that expenditure=out of the way...here is my next idea....all within the budget.
=br>

#1. To have a lunch for all my media girlfriends and the top=doctors who are responsible for the celebration of preservation. Jerry wil= come and speak. I can ask Dr. Janet Pyrtowski...a very serious respected =kin doctor...she actually specialized in skin cancer but does all the beau=y tricks...and the dentist...Dr. Marc Lowenberg...he does the veneers to a=l the stars and is the best. I might throw in the anti-agi=g doctor, with his powdered protein drinks. And maybe handsome Isra=lie Dr. Ilan Baum, the chiropractor. That's more than enough. =hey could all say a few words...or just be available to go from table to t=ble for consultations.

I will update the "How to =ook like me at 70," booklet...

Then I can do a sm=ll dinner, 100 for my close friends. I know I have $100,000.
<=iv>I could do split the budget for two.
That is one idea.=/div>

I also got calls from Blaine Trump, Jessica de Ro=hchild, Amanda Forman and Margo Nederlander about hosting a lunch...they w=uld all kick in...

I have to back to the=Four Seasons and see what they will come down to.

LA Grenoiulle will give me a dinner for 100 for 50,000....all in.

Charles Mason just opened a beautiful new restaurant=where a steak house was on E. 63rd bet Mad/Park. Only holds 70...but they =ould love anything.
Calling The Four Seasons today.&nb=p;

Isn't that great about the free brow lift! &nb=p; xoxo Peggy conversation-id 50432 date-last-viewed 0 date-received 1489595222 flags 8590195713 gmail-label-ids 6 2 remote-id 696168
