Hi Jeffrey, I was working in another version of =our house.

When I realize that you said that the entire Island is your house

Well, I figure out that if is so

Then one =f the main conditions for the designers is to be able to see your future house, =rom the Little St James house
And vice versa

I mean that every day and every night you will be =ble to spot portion of the different house locations from where ever you are

In the attached drawings you will notice that we =an separate the main function of the new house in order to achieve your =eeds.

Example:

The Dining breakfast & kitchen area will be =n one location, with other supports (like a smaller lounge area terraces etc)
=o make it more comfortable.

On the contrary the Main living room will be in =nother location with a small breakfast or dining pantry and terrace.

Existing roads to the beach or have other ways of =transport can connect both as the hills elevators use in Monaco

Your Master Bedroom will have all the =onveniences of a Master Suite on any resort and will be the most private area

Of course I'm not saying that all your =uildings have to be exposed to the East winds but what I'm saying is that you should =e able to spot every single location.

By exposing portion of the buildings to the =ittle St James House

I hope I can get my idea through,

Regards
