Hi=Kathy,

I ca= work around that for a couple of days. I realize the choice of available t= options is off the charts. Building a niche for a tv, automatically resti=ts you to future size upgrades. However, one dimension that (in your exhaus=ive search) should be dialed in ,is the thickness. Currently, readily avail=ble televisions are available in a LED,LCD, and Plasma format. I'm no techie= I.e. I deal with the application of math, chemistry, physics, history, and=reading comprehension, on a daily basis. Semi-conductors are outside of my k=owledge base. Once all those little bytes have been neatly packaged, game o=.

Gabby has specified that the existing wall will be padded approxima=ely 2", and many LED type televisions fall within that dimension. If, howev=r, you opt to go with a thicker tv, we may need to forego the articulating a=m, and simply bolt the thing to the wall (So that it doesn't project beyond=wall plane)
