Dear Jeff –

Spoke to Barry and Peter today. Seems like we will be moving right along. They are generally happy with the draft and will be sending some minor comments by early next week. No issues on the repatriation provisions. In fact, no major issues at all.

We are shooting on getting a final draft version to the Governor by early in the week of November 21. I am told that there might be some chance for consideration in the lame duck session after Thanksgiving.

Dear Jeff—

Attached was received today from Barry Hart. The first attachment is the most important as it contains his proposed changed to the Governor's cover letter. One of his proposals is to drop the "Repatriation Provisions" until we see what Trump's proposal will be in that regard.

Any comments?

Bill- In advance of our call, I send you my edits/questions of the Governor's Summary Letter describing the draft legislation, along with certain ancillary materials in my files that may be relevant and helpful dealing primarily with statutory trusts. I look forward to our call tomorrow at 4pm to discuss your excellent work product. Best, Barry
