You have a colorful way of describing the interio= that makes me J.

I am using the Citation photo th=t you liked as overall guidance. For example, we will strip the veneer =nd recover the two handrails in the cabin in the same (or color coordinati=g) material as the headliner / PSU's; this way it will "clean up" th=t dark line that runs fwd / aft by the headliner.

Am I on target?

all of the =bove, as the tables and wood work is currently bland and somewhat vulgar,=A0 , the more cashmere we use the better even the tables in the pho=os are too glaring and look more like a motor coach, think mimimal and =elegant. as you and i discussed the conference table is currelly hide=us, and needs covers, to match what ever material we put on the back of th= seats. also like in the current a top to place on the crednza so people c=n sit on it, without scratcng, .

On the 25th you sent me three (3) photo's - presumably photo l=s you took while with Yves in Paris.

Attached is one of these p=oto's - a table with perimeter inlays and a tight grain, angled veneer insert. You did not provide any information other t=an the photo. Is this for reference to the center conference table? =A0The sidewall tables? Just the inlays?
