Jesus was wandering around Jerusalem when he decided that he really=needed a new robe. After looking around for a while, he saw a sign for Finkelstein, the Tailor.

So, he went in=and made the necessary arrangements to have Finkelstein prepare a new robe for him. A few days later, when the robe was finished, Jesus tried it on -- and it was a perfect fit!

He asked how much he owed.

Finkelstein brushed him off: "No, no, for the Son of God there's no charge! However, may I ask for a small favor.

Whenever you give a sermon, perhaps you could just mention that your nice new robe was=made by Finkelstein, the Tailor?"

Jesus readily agreed and, as promised, extolled the virtues of his Finkelstein robe whenever he spoke to the masses.</> A few months later, while Jesus was again walking through Jerusalem , he happened to walk past Finkelstein's shop and noted a huge line of people waiting for Finkelstein's robe=.

He pushed=his way through the crowd to speak to him, and as soon as Finkelstein spotted Jesus he said: "Jesus, Jesus, look what you've done for my business! Would you consider a partnership?"

"I understand, Mr.=Finkelstein.. but I am the son of God," Jesus replied.

=div>The two of them debated this for some time.

Their discussion was=long and spirited, but ultimately fruitful. They finally came up with a mutually acceptable compromise. A few days later.. the new sign went up over Finkelstein's shop:
