Subject: Report # 148: Security & annoying hotel
Attachments: Door sign.jpg

Hallo!

Since I'm the only tenant in this 10 apt villa and have a lot of shady =eal estate agents showing nasty people the apts, I have taken some securit= measures:

1. Put up a sign - see attached. Do u think I get my point across...?
2. Installed a 2nd lock
3. Installed a door-guard

It's a "safe" country (because newspapers are not allowed to =eport crimes), but a girl gotta be careful...

I am at full-fledged war with the hotel next door. They are blasting music =utdoors 124 meters from me until midnite 7 days / wk.

I filed complaints to the Abu Dhabi govt. It's exhausting to live here!=just never had to fight like this anywhere else! The curse of living in a =ild west country without laws.

I was told by security at work that I'm not allowed to attempt to drive=through the barrier at the security booth. The guards are so slow opening =he barrier so every morning it's a race whether they open it before I =un through it.

Jeez... Can't have any fun at all...

With all my tripple-vault-security on my frontdoor it was only a mat=er of time before I locked myself in...

The locksmith told me that even though the security lock turns 4 times,=I can only turn 2 times since there's not enough space in the wall. Of=course I had to turn it 3 times...

After attempts to open with knif= and screwdriver I was sure of that this was a secure lock. Finally I put =y gym-gloves on and forced the key to turn. I'm a single woman and I r=ar!

Enjoy the holidays, kids! I know I won't. Going to Sweden and it's =old...
