You are meeting Jennifer Manning tomorrow at 2:30 (confirmed with me).

- Relevant experience: She is doing the same job at Weizmann in New York and has been there for 6 years (nothing more to do there).... has come into contact with grad students and Nobel Prize winners alike, writes for the lay public
- Broad based scientific knowledge: as written about stem cells, genomics, nano, physics, forensics, mathematics, energy, increasing the quality of science, etc.
- Work ethic: Working on her own, welcoming other opinions, if something didn't exist she created it, welcomes guidance but is completely comfortable with creating work processes herself. She likes her managers to be blunt, expectations clear and honest.
- Web: Has experience building an intuitive website (the new US Weizmann site) in terms of system architecture, key words, driving people to the site, etc.
- Writing: Excellent attention to detail, proof readers rarely correct her work.
- Smart: Voracious reader (Science, nature, etc.), extremely curious, culturally sophisticated
- Education: Master's in writing
- Family: Most of her family members are scientists... her dad is a physicist and her mom is a chemist.
