YTW (Yield to Worst) is the yield to maturity if the worst possible bond repayment takes place. If market yields are higher than the coupon, the yield to worst would assume no prepayment. If market yields are below the coupon, the yield to worst would assume prepayment. In other words, yield to worst assumes that market yields are unchanged.

Moody's and S&P ratings are the current opinions of the creditworthiness of an obligor that assess the likelihood of default. Obligations rated Aaa/AAA are judged to be of the highest quality, where the obligor's capacity to meet its financial commitment is extremely strong. Obligations rated Baa/BBB exhibit adequate financial security where the obligor's capacity to meet its financial commitment is susceptible to adverse economic conditions.

Duration measures the sensitivity of bond price changes to interest rate movements. Bonds with higher durations carry more risk and have higher price volatility.
