Hi Jeffrey

In which time zone are you? I am back in Paris, would be cool to talk to you. Lost money paid for the degree in Sydney=2C since I did only one semester but it was a big Australian experience + = might be able to transfer subjects back to Sorbonne.

=div>will be so happy to see you sometimes and to learn from you more just =ike in August 2011, but maybe more intellectually since the sexual knowl=dge pushed me to do not a right thing as you saw it yourself...I was too i=fluenced by the power of sex I learnt ahah and need of mo=ey for school at the moment I am t=ying to understand currency markets and exchange because I need to figure =ut if I have to leave all money I have on my aussie account or transfer ev=rything to a French one. In AUS I gain 6 % interests keeping money in bank=+ aussie dollar grows while in France it is 2%. But transferring money fro= AUS to France will cost a lot of money too, if I do it each time I need=cash in Paris.

May I have your profession=I advice ? It is not millions we are talking about but it is still necessa=y to understand the system in order not to loose

miss your smile, this funny grin
