Dear Friends and Neighbors,

The Miami Beach Emergency Management department continues to monitor Tropical Storm Erika and its projected path over the next couple of days.

The storm is still well over more 1500 miles south east of the City of Miami Beach, but the latest forecast puts the probability of landfall, should it follow the current computer models, at 5 days from now as a possible category 1 hurricane by Monday.

At this time, forecasters expect Erika to be near the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico on Thursday and reach the Dominican Republic by Friday.
