
From: Lesley Groff <████████>
Sent: Monday, October 5, 2015 3:10 PM
To: ██████████; Valdson Cotrin
Cc: Jeffrey Epstein
Subject: Fwd: Your tickets have been shipped-Ref# T-91366515
Attachments: E-Ticket.PDF; Untitled attachment 00471.htm

I have purchased and printed these tickets for Phantom for Valdson and Maria this evening...!! The tickets are on my desk! =nbsp;

Begin forwarded message:

From: <ticketing@broadway.com> =br>
Subject: =/b>Your tickets have =een shipped-Ref# T-91366515

Date: =/b>October 5, 2015 at =1:02:04 AM EDT

To: =/b>'████████' <████████>

=/td>

Thanks again for your order through Broadway.com. We are pleased to inform =ou that your tickets for The Phantom of the Opera on Oct 05, =015 at 8:00 PM are attached to this email. Please keep this email in a =afe place. You must print these tickets and bring them with you to gain =entry to the venue.

The E-Ticket that you print is a valid, =egitimate ticket. Make sure you keep it safe like any other ticket. Do =ot print the ticket more than once, or make any copies of it, since =nly the first scan of the ticket's barcode will be permitted to enter =he venue. If duplicate tickets with the same barcode are scanned, only =he first person who arrives with that ticket will be allowed entrance =o the venue.

If you are not able to open the attachment, click =ere (<http://www.ad=be.com/products/acrobat/readstep.html>) to download the latest =ersion of Adobe Acrobat. In addition, if you are using Outlook Express =nd it tells you the attachment to this email is "unsafe," please go to =he "Tools" menu, select "Options" and click on the "Security" tab. =nclick the check box which reads "Do not allow attachments to be saved =r opened that could potentially be a virus" and then click the "OK" =utton. Don't worry, the attachment to this email is NOT a virus, and =ou can change that setting back after you have downloaded and printed =our tickets.

To print these tickets, you must have an ink-jet =r laser printer (color or black and white) with at least 300 dpi =resolution. Please be sure to print the tickets at their full size; each =ne should fill an 8.5 x 11 inch (A4) sheet of paper. If your ticket is =ost or stolen, or you are unable to print it, please call us =mmediately at 1.800.BROADWAY and we will be happy to assist you =urther. We truly appreciate your business and hope you enjoy the =how!

Sincerely,

Broadway.com Customer Service

=