that sinuous black back—and athletic prowess see

<http://gu.com/p/4c4df/sbl> for an interesting piece from an American black woman made often to feel strange for not having a straight enough spine, instead, the very one producing the jutting out West African rear-end that we believe by logic must give advantage in sprinting she applies it to Serena Williams all we need is the funds now to measure it in our elite athletes—does it and knee symmetry co-correlate with ability to rise quickly to 30m fast time and over-all success at 100m? i am willing to bet other people's money the answer is yes—Bernhard ?

best from the great regarded state of New Jersey
