Island Hopping, Urban Escapes and More

We're into some serious island-hopping this week at Jetsetter, with stops at some of the most memorable seaside travel spots in the world: Santorini, Crete, Malta, Bermuda, Koh Samui in Thailand and more. And be sure to start the week off with a jaunt through some of our favorite cities (and some of their hippest hotels): the Aria in Las Vegas, the Ace in New York and the Hotel Jules in Paris.

The New Center of the Vegas Strip

ARIA Resort - Las Vegas
Now Live

In Vegas, location isn't everything, but it doesn't hurt - and Aria, the centerpiece of the CityCenter complex, is in the middle of the action on The Strip. New Haven-based architecture firm Pelli Clarke Pelli is behind the sleek, curvilinear look of the 4,004-room tower, which is also the world's largest LEED Gold-certified building. Game on for the humming of slot machines and the thumping of nightclubs at one of Vegas's sleekest new additions.

A Retro-Chic Gem in the 9th Arrondissement

Hotel Jules - Paris
Now Live

The 101-room Hotel Jules has eclectic, retro interiors by acclaimed French designer Tristan Auer. Imagine Dali-esque lips on the walls, optical illusion carpets, and, in the lobby, an oversize cream-hued leather banquette, which was inspired by the backseat of a '50s Cadillac. A sweet spot in the 9th Arrondissement means that in spite of the hotel's edgy vibe, all the classics - Montmartre, the Opera Garnier, the Louvre - are within walking distance.

Even New Yorkers Hang Out Here

The Ace Hotel - New York
Now Live

Two blocks east of Penn Station, the 12-story Ace Hotel has the formula for cool figured out. This hip hotel serves up a chill style with serious flea market finds and curious collectibles (stuffed badgers). Housing the Stumptown coffee shop, the Breslin restaurant and the No. 7 Sub Press shop, this eclectic hotel is constantly filled with locals and foreigners, with an NYC atmosphere that is unexpectedly unique.

Private Pools and Sea Views on Crete

Gran Melia - Crete

Now Live

Opened in the spring of 2011, the all-new Gran Melia Luxury Resort and Villas Daios Cove brings laid-back luxury to Crete, along with a very long name. But that name has meaning here: Gran Melia is known for bringing high-end design to locations from Italy to Indonesia, while Daios Cove offers some of the most beautiful, crystalline Mediterranean views on the island.

Art de Vivre in Chicago

Sofitel Chicago Water Tower
Now Live

French architect Jean-Paul Viguier and an attentive staff bring a touch of l'art de vivre to the Sofitel Chicago Water Tower hotel. Just a stone's throw from the Magnificent Mile's excellent shopping, dining, sightseeing and nightlife, the 32-floor hotel combines warm blond-wood accents, sleek midcentury-modern furnishings and a certain je ne sais quoi - not to mention stunning skyline views of the city's architectural gems - that will please discerning guests looking for an oasis from crowded downtown.

Deluxe Glamour in South Beach

Betsy Hotel - Miami
Now Live

Within surf-spray distance of the turquoise Miami waters, the Betsy Hotel places you in the unequivocal heart of South Beach, right on Ocean Drive. But the hotel's quieter-end-of-the-strip location and its upscale, plantation-like design set it slightly apart from all the other hotels. The Betsy looks like a demure Southern belle set in a sea of flamboyant Art Deco divas.

Sea, Spa and UNESCO Sites in Malta

Corinthia Palace Hotel - Malta
Now Live

From a distance, the 152-room Corinthia Palace Hotel and Spa in the small town of San Anton on Malta looks like the vast Mediterranean villa of a noble family. Although this 19th-century structure was converted from a private home long ago, it maintains a romantic and peaceful vibe, with a marble-clad lobby and restaurants, quiet silk and velvet rooms, a state-of-the-art spa and a setback location within reach of the area's coastal sea caverns and the UNESCO Heritage Site cities of Valletta and Mdina.

The Romantic Life With Caribbean Views

Le Reve - Playa del Carmen
Starting Thursday 14/7 at Noon BST

Ready to relax, with just the sound of the Caribbean Sea for company? Le Reve certainly lives up to the meaning of its name - French for "the dream." The romantic Riviera Maya resort is a favorite for couples, and while its remote coastal location makes for an intimate getaway, it's only 15 minutes north of lively Playa del Carmen - close enough that you can hit the tequila bars when you're in the mood, but far enough away that you can forget they exist when you're not.

Paradise Imagined on Mexico's Pacific Coast

Costa Careyes - Mexico

Starting Thursday 14/7 at 8pm BST

Combine an Italian artist's vision of a chic Mediterranean jetset hideaway with the color and verve of authentic Mexican art and culture. Add a dedicated environmental philanthropist's concern for endangered ecosystems, an array of sporting options to satisfy the adrenaline-pumped international polo set and the rugged serenity of the Pacific coast between Puerto Vallarta and Manzanillo. Shake well. Now take a big drink, and you'll begin to get the full picture of Costa Careyes.

Cottage Chic on Bermuda's Beaches

Pink Beach Club - Bermuda

Starting Thursday 14/7 at 8pm BST

Besides its sprawling pink-sand beaches, world-class golf courses and easy access (just two hours from most U.S. east coast gateways), Bermuda has long been known for its cottage colonies, freestanding white-roofed residences that are uniquely Bermudian in design and atmosphere. First opened in 1947, Pink Beach Club is the grand dame of the bunch, featuring 94 rooms, most with ocean views in tony Tucker's Town on the island's secluded east end.

Classic Lodge Living in Vail

The Lodge at Vail - Colorado

Starting Saturday 16/7 at Noon BST

The first hotel in Vail is still one of the tony village's best, and not just because of its prime location next to the lifts (you can't get any closer). Since taking over the Lodge a few years ago, RockResorts has done a superb job of maintaining the storied hotel's classic ski lodge vibe while making gradual updates. Today, it's just as much of a treat to modern-day visitors as it was to those first few ski bums back in the 1960s. With a new spa here and a new chef there, the Lodge has kept up with the times in style.
