8/17/21 Call with Jeanne Christensen

- [REDACTED] asked for more background on the allegations

Attorney proffer

- Victim was in her 30s at the time of the conduct
- Met Black at Epstein's NY townhouse, sometime in the early 2000s
- Was working giving massages for ~ few months at Epstein's townhouse
- Victim is supposed to be sending a photo of the woman who introduced her to Epstein, described as blond and young
- She met Epstein at his office in his townhouse and he knew that she needed money and was a single mother and he talked to her about how he could help her out with her money problems.
- She says that Epstein never forced himself on her, he tried to get her to take off her clothes and when she said no, he didn't force it and still paid her $300 cash
- She also gave massages to other men at the townhouse, including Black
  - [She may have had sexual contact with others – not clear]
  - Epstein introduced her to Black as someone who could help her get a job – he was introduced as Black. She remembers details of where they were in the townhouse where they met. Describes clearly the room where she gave the massages.
- Black allegation
  - She was giving him a massage, he was on his stomach
  - At some point he turned around and said it was his turn to give her a massage. He got her on her back on the table, recalls having difficulty breathing. Was violently sexually assaulted, including by being bitten. Afterwards, he got dressed as if nothing happened.
  - [I [REDACTED] asked whether she was paid for the massage – JC didn't know]]
  - After that, Black called her and asked to meet her for drinks. She thinks they met at the St. Regis hotel. He talked to her about her credit card debt, his family, etc. At some point, he gave her an envelope with 5K in cash and says I hope this helps.
  - He called her again but she never met again privately. They may have had lunch on one other occasion.
- JC doesn't know how she extracted herself from the Epstein scene. She said that she met

Gislane Maxwell a number of times at the townhouse. – JC didn't have more details on that

- Victim disclosed to a friend what happened after the fact, very soon after.
- She is willing to speak to law enforcement, but she's very concerned about her job.

JC asked about phone messages unsealed in Maxwell civil cases that included messages for Leon, victim's names redacted. Case number 15 Cv. 7433, Judge Preska.

Hi Jeanne,

Let's discuss tomorrow if you have a few minutes. Let me know when would be a good time to talk.

Thanks,

Yes – I am.

I also am attempting to take my first time off since covid and may be out on Monday but will be back in the office on Tuesday.

Would you be open to a Zoom conference call or would she need to travel up here?

Jeanne

Thanks, Jeanne. I am out of the office this week but I'll get back to you next Monday if that's ok. Are you representing this woman?

Thanks,

[REDACTED],

Around 9:30am this morning I received a call from a woman who now lives in [REDACTED] who told me she wanted to speak to me said that Leon Black raped her violently – years ago and has never told anyone about it other than her childhood best friend.

In short, the details she told me about what he did to her – are almost a perfect match about what my client told me – he violently bit down on her vulva, labia and clitoris. The biting would get harder and his teeth clamp down more when she yelled out in pain.

The woman this morning basically told me about the same biting ritual and that she could not breath she was in so much pain – it is too abnormal to make up.

She does not know my client – this person is older and says it happened in 2001 – at Epstein's townhouse. She gave massages there and Black was one of them. She said she never had sex with Epstein.

There is nothing publicly out there about the details of his specific sex acts with our client, so there is no way she could know. She works in sales for [REDACTED], earns 100k, sounded otherwise together.

Anyway, if she agrees to speak to you, would you be interested in talking to her?

Jeanne
